Damage has been estimated at between 30 and 40 million dollars. More than 50 persons were injured at the base.

MacArthur to Cut Force to 200,000

TOKYO, Sept. 17 (AP)—History's greatest military gamble—the American landing in armed Japan—has paid off so handsomely that occupation forces probably will be cut to not more than 200,000 within six months, Gen. MacArthur said today.

As a result of the successful penetration of this conquered nation, he added in a formal statement, troops will be returned home as rapidly as

BULLETIN

TOKYO, Sept. 17 (AP)—The newspaper Asahi reported that Lt. Gen. Toshio Shinotuka, member of Japan's supreme war council, committed suicide early today by cutting his throat with a samurai sword.

ships are available. Regular Army forces, he said, probably will be able to maintain unaided the 200,000-man force—which will permit complete demobilization of our citizen (drafted) Pacific forces.

"There was probably no greater gamble taken in history," his statement explained, "than the initial landings" where ground forces were outnumbered 1000 to one by armed Japanese. But, he added, "the stakes were worth it."

MacArthur's estimate of 200,000 occupation troops is just half the number which Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, commander of the U. S. Eighth Army, recently said would be necessary—and Eichelberger's figures were at that time considered low. At the start, some 800,000 men—including air forces—were scheduled to participate.

Only Saturday, however, Eichelberger forecast the entire occupation might be "washed up" within a year if it continued as smoothly as it had started.

MacArthur's statement said the unknown quantity at the outset of the occupation was whether a military government would have to be established. This would have involved several million troops, he said; but by working with the existing Jap government, purposes of the surrender terms could be accomplished with only a small fraction of the men, time and money originally projected.

"This situation involved grave initial risk but successful penetration and subsequent progress of the operation now assures success of the venture," he said.

Once Japan is disarmed, he emphasized, a force of 200,000 troops "will be sufficiently strong to insure our will."

Eighth Army headquarters reported the roundup of the 46 war-crimes suspects wanted by MacArthur was proceeding with equal smoothness—with the Jap government making the arrests. Twenty-seven already were in custody; only 17 remained at liberty; two others were dead by their own hands.

Evidence the Jap cabinet might be purging itself of wartime-militarist pasts came today in reports by well-informed Jap sources that Mamoru Shigemitsu had resigned as foreign minister. No reason was given, however.

Shigemitsu became foreign minister under Tojo in April, 1943, in a cabinet shakeup which preceded a "new policy" toward China. Authoritative sources said Shigemitsu had been included in Premier Prince Higashi-Kuni's surrender cabinet because his experience was valued in the hasty assembling of a new government.

Shigemitsu was not on MacArthur's "wanted" list. His stormy international career from loss of his right leg to a Korean-thrown bomb at Shanghai in 1932 to signing Japan's surrender aboard the USS Missouri in Tokyo bay 15 days ago.

500,000 May Strike

DETROIT, Sept. 17 (AP)—More than 80,000 workers were idle in the Detroit area today as the automotive industry and the United Automobile Workers' (CIO) Union headed for a showdown on the union's demands for a general 30 per cent wage increase for the industry.

U. S. Strike Idle Now 210,000

By Associated Press

The Shakespearean witches of Macbeth had a description of the strike scene today—"bubble, bubble, toil and trouble," except that more than 210,000 American workers were toiling as the result of labor disputes.

More than half the total number of idle—143,199—were concentrated in seven states. Michigan led the parade with more than 80,000, including 10,000 in Windsor Ont., Ohio was second with 21,830, followed by Pennsylvania, 17,120; Wisconsin, 7875; Illinois, 5574; New Jersey, 3900, and Iowa, 2850.

In addition there were various other disputes, headed by Westinghouse Electric Co.'s 47,000 idle, that were scattered across 12 other states to account for the balance.

Strikes and layoffs idled 70,000 in Detroit and 10,000 in Windsor, Ont., while UAW-CIO leaders went ahead with plans for possible strike votes affecting 500,000 throughout the nation's auto plants.

This was the situation as far as the Big Three of the auto world were concerned:

FORD—Representatives of Ford workers throughout the country were summoned to a Sept. 29-30 meeting here to decide whether to seek a strike vote.

GENERAL MOTORS—UAW officials awaited company reaction to official notification that the union would ask the National Labor Relations Board to conduct a strike vote at the firm's 135 plants if the corporation does not accept the wage increase for its 300,000 employees.

General Motors also was faced with a possibility that its production might be interrupted because of a strike at a Warren, O., plant which produces wiring systems for its autos.

CHRYSLER—Union officials set Sept. 23 for balloting by the 80,000 to 100,000 employees as to whether they will petition the International UAW-CIO for a strike vote.

Ford was hardest hit by the work stoppages, as its auto and truck production lines were halted because of a shortage of parts supplied by the striking Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Co. of Detroit.

Navy to Release 839,000 in '45

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (INS)—Vice Admiral Louis Denfeld, chief of Navy personnel, informed Congress today that the Navy expects to release 784,000 enlisted men and 75,000 officers by Christmas.

This is part of the program which calls for reduction of the Navy to 500,000 men and 50,000 officers by Sept. 1, 1946. Denfeld told the Senate military affairs committee.

Halsey Views War Ruin, Calls Japan 'Washed Up'

By KENNETH McCABLE

TOKYO, Sept. 17 (INS)—Take Adm. William F. "Bull" Halsey's word for it—Japan is a "really washed-up nation."

The colorful Third Fleet leader, after a tour of the battered Tokyo area, expressed himself as "truly surprised" by the sorry state of the Jap capital.

"Bull" was in rare form in an exclusive interview with International News Service in which he heaped derision anew at the bush league "tail-enders" who dared try to fight against major league pennant winners.

"I just got a letter from my wife giving me hell for lacking dignity in what I said about the Japs," Halsey chuckled, with a broad grin. "But from what I've seen of Japan and the Japanese I haven't changed my opinion. As a matter of fact, my opinion is intensified now I've seen what a really washed-up nation they really are."

"When the Third Fleet first came in to bombard the Jap shore July 10 I knew something was wrong because of the complete lack of opposition but not until I came ashore and had an opportunity to look around did I really understand why they couldn't even say 'boo' to us."

Like most Americans in Japan, Halsey on his first tour of the Tokyo area feels the weird unreality of the situation.

Earlier in the day I'd watched him mount and briefly ride a white horse—it wasn't Hirohito's but at least he made good his promise. But then, everything we've found in Japan has not been quite as had been expected.

The admiral dismissed the question of how long he believed the occupation of Japan would last with the rejoinder: "I've stopped looking into the crystal ball."

Halsey said he didn't approve of fraternization with the Japs. Surveying the damage in the Tokyo area, he said he hadn't yet had an opportunity to inspect the targets of his Third Fleet's bombardment, but "somebody sure rained hell around here, didn't they?"

Halsey signed a short snorter bill with "Tokio, U. S. A." He spelled the Jap capital with an "X" instead of a "Y" in the pre-war American way and underlined "U. S. A."

"This is now American territory," he said.

Limbless Vet To Share Gifts

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 17 (AP)—PFC Jimmy Wilson, who lost part of both legs and arms in a plane crash, wants an Elmiria, N. Y., buddy to share his good fortune.

Now Jimmy asks the proceeds from the articles, to be auctioned off in a coast-to-coast radio broadcast tonight, be given to his roommate, Pvt. Eddie Sardo, who lost both legs and his right arm in the European theater.

'Doc' Sagansky Free on Parole, Returns to Hub

Dr. Harry J. "Doc" Jasper, Sagansky, the Scollay sq. dentist who became what state officials called the biggest number pool operator in Boston, was freed from Norfolk prison colony on parole today.

Sagansky served the full minimum of the two and one-half to three year sentence imposed on him in Suffolk Superior Court in March, 1943, on lottery charges. He originally was sentenced to State prison but was transferred to the Norfolk prison colony in June of that year because of a chronic ailment.

On completion of formalities attending his parole at the prison colony today, Sagansky went to the Norfolk railroad station and boarded the 10:20 a. m. train for Boston.

Members of his family previously had paid $5000 in fines, imposed on him at the time of his conviction.

Sagansky twice was permitted to leave the Norfolk colony, once for the funeral of his wife, the former Molly Goodsynder, in September, 1943, and once in May, 1944, when he was brought to police headquarters as a witness in the secret trial of Capt. John A. Dorsey, then head of the City sq. station. Sagansky refused to testify, however.

Surprise Shot: Steer's Face Red

A 1500-pound steer, which slipped out of the Brighton abattoir today, prepared for a little hare and hounds with the Brighton police rodeo squad, got the surprise of his life.

He ran into the Metropolitan police instead.

Prowling down Market st. into Soldiers' Field rd., snorting at passersby and making an occasional lunge at cars of frightened motorists, the steer suddenly ran into Patrolman Jeremiah Murphy, John Barrett and Francis Lawless.

These Metropolitan officers are not top hands with a lasso but they stand for no nonsense. They cornered the animal in the Brighton speedway and Patrolman Murphy let him have it between the eyes with a rifle bullet.

Shortly before the prosecution closed its case, a document signed "A. Hitler" was read. It declared: "In the name of the German people, I award commentator William Joyce a crown of war merit, first class."

Joyce, who pleaded not guilty when the trial opened this morning in historic Old Bailey court, remained calm and self-possessed.

Returning to the courtroom after lunch, the defendant strode to the front of the prisoner's dock, clicked his heels in a military manner and bowed. His demeanor remained unruffled upon introduction of the Hitler commendation.

The treason charge contained three counts and the existence of a secret indictment was revealed after he had pleaded not guilty, but details were withheld.

Joyce was expected to contend he could not be a traitor to the Crown, since he was a citizen of the United States. He claims to have been born in Brooklyn.

Police made a stringent check-up on trial spectators. Everyone was compelled to show credentials.

A jury of 10 men and two black-garbed middle-aged women sat to hear the case of Joyce.

One woman and four men slept outside Old Bailey throughout the night to make certain they would have places in the public gallery.

The indictment head against Joyce charged broadly that he had traitorously broadcast German propaganda and traitorously become a naturalized German "while owing allegiance to his majesty."

Joyce occasionally pencilled notes as the proceedings got under way.

The attorney general, Sir Hartley Shawcross urged the jury to cast aside any feelings of destestation for Joyce and to try him without prejudice on the basis of evidence alone.

Although Joyce possessed a birth certificate purporting to show he was born in America, Shawcross declared that whatever was Joyce's nationality he claimed the rights of British citizenship and received the protection of the Crown. Since he clothed himself in the status of a British subject, the attorney pointed out, Joyce consequently owed allegiance to the Crown.

Manila Archbishop Tells Boston of War

The Most Rev. Michael J. O'Doherty, 71, Archbishop of Manila, whose Irish citizenship saved him from Jap internment in the Philippines, arrived in Boston today to attend a testimonial banquet in Lowell tonight for nine liberated Oblate missionaries fathers.

Greeting him at the Back Bay station as he arrived from Washington aboard the Federal Express was the Rev. Joseph F. Boyd, O. M. I., one of the nine liberated missionaries, who had served as his secretary in Manila prior to the Jap invasion.

Abp. O'Doherty's appearance at tonight's banquet in Memorial Auditorium, Lowell, will be his first official one in the United States. He had been under treatment at an Asheville, N. C., hospital for injuries suffered in a jeep accident some time ago in Manila.

The nine liberated Oblate fathers will be presented with a substantial check for the Philippine missions at the banquet, which will be in the nature of a farewell as they are returning to Manila to replace other missionaries who are coming home.

"The Church has a huge job of reconstruction ahead," Abp. O'Doherty said in discussing the situation in the Philippines. "The Cathedral is in ashes, the Archbishop's palace is dust. In Manila alone 22 of the larger churches and 40 smaller ones have been leveled to the ground."

The archbishop glossed over his occupation experiences although admitting he had been commended publicly by Gen. MacArthur for his passive resistance to the Japanese.

"There wasn't much of the neutral about my position," he confided. "Gen. MacArthur has been my good friend for years."

During his brief visit here, the archbishop plans to confer with Abp. Cushing.

GI Wives Finding Haven at Center

The Boston Center for Servicemen's Wives and Mothers at 146 Boylston st. proved a haven of refuge for scores of relatives of servicemen today. Most of those taking advantage of the facilities of the new center were kin of soldiers who had come to Boston to greet loved ones recently returned from Europe's battlefields.

Honor of being the first patron of the Center, which was conceived by two executives of the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser, went to Mrs. Emma Schultz, 24, of Buffalo, N. Y.

She had come here to meet her husband, PFC Albert A. Schultz, 25, and she had spent the night in the South Station waiting room. She was thrilled at the comfortable, homelike rooms of the Center.

"You can't realize how much I appreciate a place like this," she said. "It's so nice to have a haven where you can rest and get straightened out and settled after riding on trains."

Soldier Schultz, overseas almost two years, a veteran of Anzio and the fighting in France and Germany who is stationed at Camp Edwards, awaiting a medical discharge, was delighted that his young wife, whom he married just before entering the Army two years ago, was the first GI wife registered at the Center.

And after she had freshened up in the rose-and-green powder room, the couple availed themselves further of the Center's service and asked aid in securing a place for Mrs. Schultz to live in Boston pending his discharge. A skilled jewelry worker, she had been making precision instruments at Buffalo during the war, but she said:

"I've been lonely now long enough."

Coupons Ready to Aid Mailing Buddies' Gifts

This is a Christmas for remembering. It is the first Christmas of peace, after more than four years of the heartbreak and horror of war, and those most deserving of remembrance are the valiant men and women overseas through whose efforts and sacrifice peace and victory have been brought to the world.

Make sure that not one is forgotten on Christmas Day. And the most practical way to insure this is to enroll now in the Christmas Gifts for Buddies Overseas campaign, which the Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser is launching for the fourth successive year.

This is a Christmas when literally millions of our men and women in the armed services are still overseas, their longing for home all the more acute because the war is over.

To each of these, a gift and a message of Christmas cheer will be welcome beyond all value, as these gifts have been welcome in the past three years to hundreds of thousands of fighting men who have expressed their gratitude to the generous readers of these newspapers.

Last year alone, more than 20,000 gift packages were sent to soldiers and sailors, Marines and Coast Guardsmen, all over the fighting world.

A distinguished committee has offered its services and support of this drive. Heading the group is Abp. Cushing as honorary chairman. Postmaster Patrick J. Connelly is active chairman.

Other members include Gov. Tobin, Mayor Kerrigan, Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill of the Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts, president of the Rabbinical Ass'n Rabbi Herman H. Rubenowitz of Greater Boston, Maj-Gen. Sherman Miles, commanding the First Service Command, and Com. W. N. Derby, District Office, U. S. Coast Guard.

This year, in order to deliver the Christmas packages to men and women overseas as speedily and directly as possible, gifts will be sent to the chaplains at all ports, bases and occupied areas, rather than to an individually named soldier.

The chaplains, however, will distribute the packages to the men in each particular group or outfit, making sure no one is forgotten.

This is the process to follow: Fill out and mail the coupon accompanying this article. In return, you will receive a label, bearing the name of an overseas chaplain, either in the Atlantic or Pacific area. Mail your gift package directed to this chaplain. He will distribute the gift to one of the men in his group, wherever he may be, on land or sea.

Enroll now in this most worthy campaign. Remember, the deadline for mailing Christmas packages to all overseas servicemen is Oct. 15.

Watch these columns, and those of the Daily and Sunday Advertiser, for further instructions in packing and mailing.

Imogene Fears Home-City Jury, Would Shift Trial

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., Sept. 17 (INS)—Counsel for sultry Imogene Stevens, 24-year-old Texas beauty, was expected today to move for a change of venue tomorrow when she is arraigned on a manslaughter charge in Superior Court.

The twice-wed Mrs. Stevens is being held in connection with the fatal shooting of Albert Kovacs, 19-year-old sailor, last June 23 in the home of Charles Milton, her next-door neighbor.

Mrs. Stevens' attorney, David Goldstein, is expected to argue that her fellow-citizens already have decided upon her guilt and that it would be impossible to get an open-minded jury in Bridgeport.

Goldstein also probably will argue that remarks of Coroner Theodore E. Steiber, who branded Mrs. Stevens as a love pirate, were highly prejudicial. Steiber had accused her of engaging in an illicit love affair with Milton.

At the home of the slain sailor in Norfolk his mother, Mrs. John Kovacs, sobbed. "I can't forgive her. No matter what they do to that woman, it won't bring my Albert back. It's not enough that she killed him, now she's trying to blacken his name. No mother could forgive that."

Firebug Suspect Tells of Drinks, Says Mind Blank

After a swift week-end probe, police today picked up a 35-year-old Lexington man for questioning in connection with investigation of the fires which swept two downtown Boston stores at the height of Saturday's shopping, forcing customers to flee and hospitalizing three firemen.

The suspect, who commented he "never remembers anything when drinking," was identified by at least three employees as being in the basements of the Rogers Jewelry Co. and the Boyle Bros. clothing store only minutes before flames broke out.

Ethel Barron of Woodrose ave., Dorchester, said the suspect paid $2 on an account at Boyle Bros., while another employee, Joseph Shindler of Murray st., Chelsea, said he "thought" the man in the lineup was the same intoxicated man he directed to the washroom. He added the man ran out just a few minutes before the first cry of fire.

James Wallace of Harold st., Roxbury, a porter at the Rogers Jewelry Co., said he had an extended conversation with the suspect, who introduced himself as a former employee at the company's Wakefield store. He said fire broke out right after the man went into a basement room.

Confronted thus, the suspect told Lt. John L. Willard he had been drinking Saturday with an East Boston girl at Revere Beach. He said he took her home and then had a few more drinks before coming to Boston. He declared he did not remember being on Washington st., location of the two blazes.

The fires closed Washington st. to traffic, caused $10,000 damage and sent three firemen to the hospital. Other firemen were treated for some inhalation at the scene.

Police Set Guard To Defend Merchant

Highway Deaths Call For Rigid Inspection

Warning that the highway slaughter must cease, State Registrar of Motor Vehicles Rudolph F. King, in reporting 18 fatalities last week, announced today that the inspection period from Sept. 1 to Oct. 31 will be the most rigid ever conducted in Massachusetts. The week's deaths included the four servicemen killed in the bus tragedy at Ayer.

PRE-EMINENT FASHION DESIGNER

Wizard in his field where genius is commonplace, this noted fashion expert is not only tops in his field but sets the pace that others follow. His name is synonymous with exclusiveness and ingenious originality, and it is well, you would know how much real pleasure it was to have so distinguished a guest drop in personally recently. He was here from the West, where, you guessed it, he is one of California's Who's Who, not only in the fashion register, but a millionaire. "Come to Boston, and NOT visit Filene's Basement—that's one of the highlights of any trip East—every time I come here it's an experience—it's a thrill because probably no other store in the country is as exciting." His amazement stems from the fact that this unique bargain wonderland not only sells seconds and samples from his own firm, but in walking through, his realization that other equally prominent lines from famous makers and retail stores on sale here brought forth the ejaculation "Who can go wrong here?—not only my lines, but look at the company they keep." Mr. X travels from one end of the country to the other, and his merchandise in first quality is featured in the finest stores, shops and magazines. Filene's Basement is the only store as far as we know offering seconds of — from time to time. P.S. We hardly need to add that every time we get the seconds of this famous line, they sell post-haste, and are an illuminating example of how fashion and savings go hand in hand via the automatic disposal system.

Our Constitution

By BENJAMIN DECASSERES

I am the Constitution of the United States.

Today I am 158 years old.

I have outlived every human being who helped to create me and have outlived all the constitutions of Europe.

That is because I was built on the never-dying principle of the INDIVIDUAL as the master of the state.

The Declaration of Independence was only the PLAN of an edifice.

I am the COMPLETED MAN-SION.

Today, 158 years after my birth, there are sappers and miners in my cellar.

They are called Communists, Fascists, State Socialists. They work in the dark in every room in my house, and thus they threaten my whole edifice.

LOOK TO IT, AMERICANS! For though my principles are of eternal validity, my structure can be destroyed.

Look to the CELLAR-UNDER-MINERS, Uncle Sam!

I am the Constitution of the United States.

James Madison, who had most to do with my building, said:

"The Constitution is a bill of powers, the great residuum being the RIGHTS OF THE PEOPLE."

Defend those RIGHTS, Americans, with your life!

For once destroyed you shall never see me again!

I have been the wonder and admiration of all generations since 1787 and the model of all future constitutions, said William Pitt, the great English statesman.

Will you lose faith in me now, Americans?

Sinister forces tell you I'm a "horse-and-buggy" document.

I am OLDER than the horse-and-buggy.

I am as old as the first man who whispered the word "LIBERTY!" from his political prison-camp to his fellow-prisoners.

I am the Constitution of the United States.

I have stood for 158 years as a Rock of Gibraltar against the assaults of cunning, alien-minded politicians, crackpot theorists and the reactionary influences of the idolaters of the staff and the annihilators of individualism.

I was specifically created to destroy European political influences.

But today, Americans, these influences, under many disguises, work to pull me to bits piecemeal.

It was Calvin Coolidge, a great CONSTITUTIONAL President, who uttered these magical words about me:

"The Constitution of the United States is the final refuge of EVERY RIGHT that is enjoyed by any American citizen."

Will you, O Americans, my children, trade these rights for a medieval slave state modelled on the ideas of Lenin, Hitler and Stalin?

I am the Constitution of the United States.

Never in all the years of my life have I cried out louder to you, O Americans, to read me, study me, UNDERSTAND ME, DEFEND ME! These are times of crumbling faith throughout the world. The very bases of society, of personal and national honor, are ROTTING.

I AM AMERICA AND AMERICA IS ME.

Today I am the light of the world, politically speaking.

If I am destroyed, the U. S. A. will pass into the night of TOTALITARIAN SLAVERY.

Exactly nine years after I was born, on Sept. 17, 1796, Washington in his farewell address, speaking of me, the Constitution, said:

"LET THERE BE NO CHANGE BY USURPATION!"

Usurpation of executive and bureaucratic powers threatens me today as it never has threatened me before.

So the number of birthdays I have in the future will depend on you UNITED STATES Americans.

Boy Giant Beats Girls at Cooking

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 17 (INS)—A towering high school boy who wins cooking and canning prizes from flocks of picked feminine kitchen artists was aiming today at national recognition. He is 17-year-old Bill Gavin of Portland, who expects to finish high school next January.

Standing six feet six inches tall and weighing 185 pounds, he is too busy taking care of things around his suburban home to take part in sports.

But he won seven first prizes—all he could take—in cookery at the 4-H Club exhibit at the Multnomah County fair.

For the second year in a row he won five blue ribbons for canning—22 jars in all.

Besides that, he won the bread-baking and cake-baking contests this year.

COLORADO'S FIRST SNOW
LEADVILLE, Colo., Sept. 17 (INS)—Colorado's first snow of the season was cleared today from Rocky Mountain highways after it blocked traffic on both Loveland and a dBerthoud passes.

World Mourns McCormack

DUBLIN, Sept. 17 (INS)—The passing of John McCormack, renowned tenor, was mourned throughout the world today. The "Irish tenor" died last night after a brief illness at his home in Booterstown, just outside this city. McCormack, opera and concert star, did his last singing for the Red Cross and halted only on doctor's orders that his health would not stand a continuance.

Immediate cause of death of the 61-year-old singer was bronchial pneumonia.

Possessor of a voice unrivaled in many respects, McCormack was especially noted as a ballad singer, and for these presentations his concert audiences waited anxiously. His renditions of Irish ballads were superb.

McCormack, an American citizen since 1919, was supreme among tenors at the height of his career. His chief inspiration was the late Enrico Caruso, famed Italian tenor. Once established as a noted singer, McCormack's concert earnings surpassed those of Caruso himself.

Aluminum Company Split Urged by Clark

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (AP)—Atty-Gen. Tom C. Clark told Congress today the Aluminum Company of America should be split into a number of competing companies.

His contention: more competition in aluminum is essential to national security and business prosperity. He said: "Wartime expansion was hampered by the fact that there was only one experienced company in this strategic industry on which our air-power depended."

Missing in Woods, Baby Found Unhurt

BERLIN, Ct., Sept. 17 (AP)—Little Billy Seld, two years and nine months old, who disappeared Saturday afternoon, was found sleeping in a brush heap 250 yards from where he was last seen.

Three women walking in the woods, while a search party of 300 continued an all-night and all-day hunt, found the youngster. Billy was unharmed save for a few scratches.

Bold Pair Sought In $580 Holdup

Police in Greater Boston today continued the search for two armed bandits who staged a hold $580 holdup before a Saturday night shopping crowd in the heart of Chelsea's business district, and whose descriptions have since been given by witnesses.

Victim of the holdup was Joseph Lapadulola, manager of a Broadway chain store, who was robbed of the bag in which he was carrying the money to leave it in the night deposit box of a local bank.

The money represented the store receipts of the day.

By JAMES F. MCENANEY

Q—If a boy enlists in the service now, is his wife entitled to payment of family allowance? I. L., Needham.

A—If a boy enters the Army, his wife is entitled to receive Family Allowance if he enters any other branch of the service, that information will have to be obtained from the branch concerned.

Q—I was engaged to a soldier and now have his baby. He has not answered any of my letters since I have told him about it. Can he be forced to marry me and can I get any support for the child? B. L., Providence.

A—There is no way in which the soldier can be forced to marry you, as far as the Army is concerned. However, your child would be entitled to receive payment of Family Allowance if the soldier is willing to file application, or you may file application which would be approved if the soldier will submit a certified statement of paternity. Detailed information may be obtained from the Personal Affairs Branch, First Service Command, 808 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, 15.

Q—I have two sons in the Army who have never sent me an allowance. My husband has been working. Now he is very sick and cannot work for a long time to come. Could my sons have a Government Allowance for me now, even though they have been in the service so long? J. M., Cambridge.

A—Yes, they could both apply for family allowance for you and your husband. It isn't necessary to establish the fact that they have previously contributed to your support. The fact that you and your husband are now dependent and your sons are willing payment should be made, would make you eligible to apply for the Family Allowance.

Q—My husband was killed in action. We had been divorced for over a year but have one child. I received a Family Allowance of $42 for July but no more payments to date. Isn't the child entitled to some benefits? My husband hadn't remarried and he said he had made out his Government Insurance for our son. Where can I inquire about this? T. L., Burlington.

A—The Family Allowance would be paid through the months in which your husband was reported killed. If the report was received in July, you should have received the check in August. The child is eligible for pension and inquiry should be made to the Veterans' Administration, Washington, D. C., regarding this. Be sure to give the soldier's full name and Army Serial Number and date of his death. That agency will also give information regarding insurance, if you advise them that you believe there is a policy in effect for the child. It is suggested that you contact Personal Affairs Branch, First Service Command, Boston, for information as to any other benefits to which the child may be entitled such as Arrears in Pay due the soldier at time of death, and the Six Months' Gratuity Pay.

Q—Can my husband add points for each month since May up to this date? He had 74 then. W. G., Manchester.

A—On a revised system, the points will be counted to Sept. 2, 1945; it is suggested that you watch this newspaper for information as to when this date is actually in effect.

Q—Can families of military personnel secure Army Emergency Relief help from City Sections of that agency as formerly? K. M., Brighton.

A—Since early in 1944, City Sections of Army Emergency Relief have been closed. Sections are still maintained at Army Posts and Stations to handle emergency help for dependents in need of military personnel at the discretion of the Commanding Officer. A primary source of ment.

"A generous supply of calcium results in better development of the bones, a higher normal of adult health, and a longer lease of what we may call the prime of life, the period between maturity and old age."

AM I OLD AT 40?

Old age sets in at 40 and 50 and 60, when the body no longer grows as well as it once did. It is replaced by a new vitality of Calcium as essential factor in building up the body and keeping it in the prime of life.

ARE MY NAILS BRITTLE?

Calcium is an essential material in the nails, bones and teeth, built as essential as it is for the soft tissues. A Calcium deficiency does not always result in the same manner in different people. In some it may cause weak, brittle nails that break and split easily.

There is More Danger of a Deficiency of Calcium Than Any Other Food Element

Calcium is more often deficient in the diet than any other mineral. Calcium deficiency, a form of malnutrition, may be in cause of acidity, nervousness, fatigue, weak, loose muscles and other defects that hamper the most of "OLD AGE" and shorten the "PRIME OF LIFE."

A generous supply of Calcium, with Phosphorus and Vitamin D, is required for the normal Calcium-Phosphorus balance that is essential in health. Calcium, sodium and potassium, is needed in the growth and repair of bone structure, cells and tissues.

DO I TIRE EASILY?

A normal blood sugar level, sufficient to supply the body with energy, is one of the most important factors in the maintenance of health. A Calcium deficiency hinders the normal strength, energy and ability to overcome the stress of the day.

Card-Player Held In Knife Murder

LEOMINSTER, Sept. 17—In the aftermath of a drinking bout and poker game argument, Arthur Coldwell, 37, of Daley st., was arrested here today and charged with the butcher-knife slaying of Frederick G. Senee, 33, of Lakeside ave.

Coldwell, a Negro, pleaded not guilty to a charge of murder and was held without bail for further hearing Sept. 27.

Police Chief Smith quoted Coldwell as saying he and Senee had met last night at a downtown tavern and that the poker game was suggested after a number of drinks.

They journeyed to Coldwell's home and started the game, according to Coldwell's story, but began to argue.

Chief Smith said Senee died when a butcher knife was plunged into his stomach and that the body then was loaded into Coldwell's truck. But the motor stopped on Exchange st., a short distance away. The chief said Coldwell then sought a tow from a friend downtown. During this process the body fell from the truck. It was discovered by Mrs. Ruth Emery in front of her Exchange st. home.

OUR CONSTITUTION

THE CONSTITUTION of the United States, formally adopted by a constitutional convention in Philadelphia on September 17, 1787, has now been the pattern of the life and government of the American people for 158 years.

This is the historic instrument of government that William Ewart Gladstone, the great English statesman whose name has become a universal symbol for learning in the law, once called "the most remarkable work known to me in modern times to have been produced by the human intellect."

It is "the remarkable work," as its preamble attests, of the PEOPLE of the United States.

"We, the people of the United States . . . do ordain and establish this constitution for the United States of America," says the preamble.

The specific purposes of the people were set forth in the opening paragraph of the instrument.

These are the things the people proposed to do:

- To form a more perfect UNION.
- To establish JUSTICE.
- To insure domestic TRANQUILITY.
- To provide for the common DEFENCE.
- To promote the general WELFARE.
- To secure the blessings of LIBERTY to ourselves and our posterity.

The measure in which the American people have succeeded in these purposes, through the instrument of their making, is the most wonderful thing in all human experience, the most noble achievement of mankind in all history, the most beneficial and enlightened and determined stride the people of any nation in the history of the world have ever taken toward the attainment of happiness and prosperity in an atmosphere of security and liberty.

Mr. Gladstone made his authoritative and appreciative appraisal of the Constitution of the United States when it was one hundred years old, in a letter written to the committee in charge of the centennial anniversary of the American Constitution in 1887.

Now after one hundred and fifty-eight years, the American people are privileged to make their own appraisal anew, out of their continuing experience.

The American people would be unworthy of their heritage if they did not make that appraisal appreciatively.

THEY HAVE JUST EMERGED FROM THE GREATEST WAR IN HISTORY, WITH THE UNION MORE PERFECT THAN EVER BEFORE, WITH JUSTICE TRIUMPHANT, WITH TRANQUILITY RESTORED, WITH THEIR DEFENCE IMPREGNABLE, WITH THE GENERAL WELFARE OF THE NATION SAFEGUARDED, AND WITH THE BLESSINGS OF LIBERTY SECURED TO THEMSELVES AND THEIR POSTERITY AS COMPLETELY AS MEN HAVE THE POWER AND THE WISDOM TO SECURE SUCH BLESSINGS.

The unity, the justice, the tranquility, the security, the welfare and the liberty of the American people have all been achieved under the Constitution of the United States.

They have been achieved BECAUSE of the Constitution, and because the American people have BELIEVED in it and had FAITH in it and have been willing to fight and die for the principles it expounds and for the wholesome and beneficial instruments of government it created.

LIONARDO DA VINCI'S Mona Lisa is back in the Louvre in Paris. This is probably the world's most valuable painting. How much it is worth I couldn't say. However, for Titian's "Sacred and Profane Love" J. P. Morgan offered $7,500,000. This offer was refused. Certainly the Mona Lisa is worth more than the Titian painting. Have you noticed that Madonna Laetitia, the subject of the Da Vinci painting, was a Florentine. The portrait was painted in Florence, but the subject, the wife of Zanobi del Giocondo, was a Neapolitan. Her enigmatic smile is said by some unscientific historians to have been caused by the fact that she had no teeth.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS. Q—Whom do you name as the greatest jockey of all time in the entire world? I say Fred Archer, the major says Tod Sloan, the captain says Isaac Murphy, while the colonel, an old boy with young ideas, says Eddie Arcaro. Some argument, what? A—I think Gordon Richards, the English jockey, is the greatest all-time rider of thoroughbreds. Q—What is your favorite radio program? A—Bing Crosby on records. Never miss it. Q—In what section of the country has a girl the best chance to get a husband? A—Experts say the girls in the West have the best chance for marriage. Q—Name a hit stage play with a title taken from a Mother Goose rhyme or send me a stogie. A—Easy question. I'll name two: "Daddy's Gone A-Hunting" and "The Cat and the Fiddle." Please forward two stogies.

BRIEFLY: In 1939 the aircraft industry was No. 44 on the list of United States industries. In 1944 it was No. 1. Wonder how it will rate in 1948? It was Freud who said: "Love for one's own person is perhaps the secret of beauty." . . . The younger the mother the more likely the child is to be a boy. During periods of war there are more young mothers than ever. So, therefore, in war time there are always more boys born than girls. That's the way a Chicagoan has it figured out. Sounds reasonable.

HORSES & WOMEN: Seymour Hicks says the girls of Dublin, Ireland, were the most beautiful in the world but that you couldn't tell it because of the kind of hats they wore. Incidentally, our Horses & Women experts are still trying to find out why women with round faces wear small hats flat on their heads. Or, for that matter, why any woman wears a hat flat on her head. This, say our H. & W. experts, makes a 22-year-old woman look as if she were in a daze or slightly inebriated, and makes a 32-year-old female look as if she were 42.

If this gets no results, he starts yanking at the cuffs of my trousers. If that fails, he barks. A very persistent animal.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—The Supreme Court recently decided in effect that a labor union, hitherto allowed to act in restraint of interstate commerce loses that privilege when it operates in concert with a non-labor group.

The case was an injunction suit by a group of manufacturers of switch boards and other electrical equipment residing outside the City of New York.

The plaintiffs charged that Local 3, of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, of the A. F. of L., had agreed with certain manufacturers and contractors within the metropolitan area to exclude their products from New York.

It was argued that this combination was a boycott against many large non-resident manufacturers excluding them from the greatest single market in the country.

Had the union imposed this boycott by itself, simply by declaring the plaintiff manufacturers to be "unfair," these companies and the public might have had no relief.

In previous cases, the court had ruled flatly that a union was the sole judge of its own interests and of the means that it might use to advance those interests, provided it acted by itself or in concert with other unions, but not with employers or other non-labor interests.

THE PLAINTIFF manufacturers contend that, in the postwar building business in New York, where vast numbers of new apartments will be needed, the restrictions created by Local 3 would add heavily to the cost of construction and thus to the rents.

It is not here represented that Local 3 is disreputable or that its important offices are occupied by criminals.

William A. Hogan, treasurer of Local 3 for many years, was sentenced to Sing Sing on July 17, 1922, for grand larceny, first degree, to serve from 1½ to three years. In July, 1923, Gov. Al Smith commuted his term to the time served. Gov. Smith said the commutation did not suggest any doubt as to Hogan's guilt. Hogan was released because his family needed his support. The people proved that he had misappropriated $21,675 from the rank and file benefit funds.

After his release he was restored to the position of trust and the parent or international brotherhood made him international treasurer.

The business manager of Local 3 is Harry Van Arsdale. He has been convicted of assault, first degree, in a shooting case, in which two men were wounded, and of inciting to riot in a strike. Both convictions were reversed and the indictments were dismissed thereafter.

The shooting is alleged to have occurred in the local union hall on Feb. 24, 1933. William Sorenson, a union member, was shot in the shoulder and stomach, and Frank Dooner, also a member, was shot in the hand. Within an hour, Sorenson made a statement to the district attorney, saying: "Van Arsdale pulled a gun. He fired at me and the first bullet hit me in the stomach. He fired another shot at me."

At Bellevue Hospital, Dooner later said Van Arsdale had no gun.

HENRY CODELL, another member, who had been with Sorenson and Dooner, was slain near his home four months after the shooting. No arrest was made in the case.

Adelbert Letscher gave testimony at the preliminary hearing of the charge on May 27, 1933. That afternoon acid was thrown in his face. He testified at Van Arsdale's trial and his mention of the acid was stricken out. However, in summing up, the prosecutor referred to this testimony and this reference was, in part, the basis of the reversal.

On April 30, 1935, the district attorney, moving dismissal of the shooting case, told the court that Sorenson and Dooner had received, between them, out of the union's funds, $15,000 in settlement of suits against the union on account of their wounds. Therefore they no longer desired to prosecute.

VAN ARSDALE insists that the decision to pay Sorenson and Dooner $15,000 was freely taken by the membership.

At one of the general membership meetings, however, his popularity, if that is the correct word, was shown when, by a motion from the floor, he was nominated for re-election and then re-elected by acclamation.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 17.—The latest and one of the most important of the movie Lend-Lease deals between London and Hollywood, brings Rex Harrison here to star in "Anna and the King of Siam"—but immediately.

Harrison, one of the most charming of the English actors, is best known in this country for his work in "The Citadel" and "Night Train" and it is a feather in 20th's cap—or Harry Zanuck's—to get him over here.

William Powell and Dorothy McGuire were originally scheduled for "Anna and the King," etc., but their names have been rubbed off the blackboard and everything's starting over with a clean slate. Who gets the McGuire role hasn't been decided, but some good guesses have hinted at Irene Dunne. Harrison's deal is for this one picture.

Irene Dunne

IN ADDITION to his "Blondie" series, Arthur Lake is branching out on his own with Don Bernard, producer of the "Blondie" air show. He's going to co-produce and star in a screen version of "Skippy," a novel by John Greene about a boy who returns from the war with a lot of whizzing lies about imaginary experiences he'd had in battle. Picture will be made at the California studios and four of Arthur's best friends, Jimmy Weissmuller, Edgar Bergen, Ken Murray and his father-in-law, George Van Cleave are putting in additional mazzina to make the wheels turn.

JOAN CAULFIELD, Bing Crosby's leading lady in "Blue Skies," moves over to the femme lead with his sidekick, Bob Hope, in the much-tossed-about "Monsieur Beaucaire." This is the part Hedy Lamarr was rumored for and couldn't make. But Joan, who is a sweet little girl, doesn't mind being second choice. "She would mind being second choice to Hedy." And, besides, she's coming along so fast on the Para lot she doesn't have to worry about anything.

WALLY BEERY likes Marjorie Main but he's put his foot down about being teamed in any more pictures with her. While insisting he has nothing against log-horn voiced Mary personally, he doesn't want to become part of a permanent team again. Wally argues that after Marie Dressler died he practically had to start over again, and it was the same when he broke up with his old sidekick, Raymond Hatton. So Miss Main is being taken out of his next, "The Bruiser."

But the authorities say nothing doing unless the parents-to-be have a house with plenty of sunshine and a yard. But there's no hard feelings on either side." For the past two or three years she has been devoting all her time to USO tours—but she's remaining in Hollywood now to keep up her screen career where she's still, P.S.—Mabel looks wonderful!

MY OLD FRIEND, Max Baer, called to say the reason he announced the "engagement" of Jack Dempsey and Evelyn Keyes at Slapsy Maxie's is because Jack introduced her as his fiancee and he didn't know he was not supposed to go along with the gag. "Sometimes those writers can 'wolf' when they mean it," laughed Maxie, who says he loves Jack like a blood relative (but better) and wouldn't do anything to embarrass him. "I used to call those guys 'beat' ago," continued Mops, Baer, "but I've gotten up it now here."

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—Sally Benson, author of the "Junior Miss" tales, is ailing at Doctors Hospital.

Betty Hutton

Charlie Chaplin has been talking about a deal to sell his Hollywood studios . . . Betty Hutton's new father-in-law gave the young couple $30,000 for a wedding present . . . Intimates hear Miriam Hopkins is all set to become the bride of Ray Brock, the war scribe, as soon as he returns from overseas . . . Actress Florence Eldridge leaves soon for Lillian Smith's farm, where she'll confer on the play version of the novel "Strange Fruit" in which she'll play a leading role . . . The Army is reported most unhappy about William Saroyan's latest book—supposedly a devastating commentary on the civilian-info-fighting-man process . . . George Raft's gifts to Betty Doss, the New Orleans beauty, are in the four-figure class.

NICK KELLY, the Copacabana greeter—whose background is as colorful as that of any Broadway character you can name—will manage the new $50,000 resort soon to be built in Nevada . . . The author of a show opening in the near future on the Main Stem found it advisable to "leave suddenly" for the Coast after the producer threatened to throw him out of a hotel window during the out-of-town run . . . Joe DiMaggio and Dorothy Arnold are expected to announce their reconciliation any day now . . . Maurice Zolotow, who is writing a book about Billy Rose, has a unique arrangement with the Little Barnum. He will pull no punches in the story; any disputes between author and subject about materials to be used in the final version will be settled by Ben Hecht. Hecht, will be the final judge of what is deleted and what stays in . . . June Knight posed for an in fur coats during the heat and humidity the other afternoon and what do you think I panned? The photographer faint!

THE DETROIT Latin Quarter quickly closed its expensive show with the Ritz Brothers ($10,000 a week) because it was losing money. Now they're scared of the Martha Raye engagement at her terrific salary . . . The peak of chic: Lynn Gilmore received a pearl gray auto to match her platinum fox coat as a seventh anniversary present from her husband, Lou Levin . . . Emily (China To Me) Hahn is working on her next book—about Raffles of Singapore . . . Ballet circles seem to find it significant that George Balanchine squired one of the Tallchief sisters to the preview of "Mr. Strauss Goes to Boston."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17—The Poor Helen Club, Washington Chapter, held its first meeting of the fall season the other night. The minutes of the previous meeting were adopted as read, after which the members gave the club yell: "Poor Helen, I don't see how she stands it!" and then proceeded to the business of the evening, which was to get reasonably potted.

Helen Hayes

The Poor Helen Club, in case you are not familiar with that almost worldwide organization, is comprised of persons who go about bemoaning the sad fate of Miss Helen Hayes, the actress. Members are convinced that Miss Hayes has a cruel cross to bear in the person of her husband, Lt. Col. Charles MacArthur.

Col. MacArthur is now back in civilian clothes, having retired from the Army last week at the statutory retirement age of 108—in the shade. But he is still a fine military figure, even if he insists on wearing a sports coat with belted back of a style that was extremely popular at Tammany picnics before the invention of the internal combustion engine.

The gallant colonel is a playwright by trade and presumably will return to it after he gets fitted for some modern clothing. I am almost sure he could not do much playwrighting in his present garb, first because it is too tight from a couple of years of Army fare and secondly because he would undoubtedly be distracted by other playwrights inquiring if he were made up to play a character part in a revival of "Bunty Pulls the Strings."

The affair of which we are speaking was given by Mr. Earl Gammons, the old CBS gamester, to celebrate Miss Hayes' radio debut. But the matter I chiefly wish to discuss is this:

After watching the brave MacArthur through the evening's ordeal like an officer and a gentleman, a number of us more fair-minded citizens decided to form a rival organization to be known as the Poor Charlie Club!

WE SUBMIT this is only justice because Mr. MacArthur has taken a fearful beating down the years, most of it utterly undeserved. You would go far to find a gentleman as restrained and retiring. In fact, you would go so far you would probably never come back.

Many citizens profess to believe that Mr. MacArthur lives his private life like the characters in his famous play "Front Page." But the truth is that many of the things for which he stands indicted were in no wise his fault.

For instance, he was surely in no way to blame for a recent happening. I refrained from writing about this at the time because Mr. MacArthur was then in uniform and the Pentagon brass hats might have taken the childish and narrow view that it had too distinct an odor of alcohol.

Mr. MacArthur was playing host to Miss Hayes' mother, the redoubtable Mrs. Catherine Brown. I called upon them in

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

"But why did they scratch him—was he itchy?"

company with Walter O'Keefe, the comedian.

Mr. MacArthur took us into the kitchen and explained that his mother-in-law had not been sleeping well of late.

"She is not young," he said solicitously. "She should not be staying up like this. So, to insure that she gets a proper rest, I have just spiked her drink with the biggest shot of sleeping potion you ever saw!"

We adjourned to the living room. Mrs. Brown, as sprightly as all get-out and looking in positively no need of sleep, kept up a running fire of banter with Mr. O'Keefe. As the conversation progressed, Mr. MacArthur kept favoring each of us in turn with a broad "it-won't-be-long-now" wink.

But the winks became more and more labored. As the minutes passed he seemed to be having difficulty reopening his eyes after each winking effort. He started to lie heavily to starboard—but kept on with his winking—which now seemed wooden and automaton-like.

Finally, he rolled right off the sofa and hit the floor, sound asleep. Whereupon, Mrs. Brown said brightly:

"Poor, dear Charlie, he has been under such a strain. I decided he needed sleep—so I switched the drinks!"

THE POOR CHARLIE CLUB is open to all who feel Mr. MacArthur has been taking it too long. We have several notables on our roster already, including Paul Porter, head of the Federal Communications Commission, who bled for our hero as he went around bravely passing cake to dowagers without ever once talking out of turn.

For honorary president we hear House Minority Leader Joseph Martin. The place already was crawling with Senators, Representatives and governmental bigshots when he arrived. He was introduced to Miss Hayes. The diminutive first lady of the theater explained later that what she had tried to tell Mr. Martin was that she was overwhelmed by the presence of so many notables, including himself. But what came out was "Oh, dear me! So many characters!"

Boston After Dark

MONDAY MUSINGS: "Devils Galore," backed chiefly by Boston money, closed in New York after four performances . . . If producers would abide by the unanimous dissent of the drama critics of a city like Boston or Philadelphia, they would save a great deal of money—and part of their reputations.

EX-SGT. William Cahn, the Malden lad who produced "Devils Galore," has a good chance of recovering from this first major setback in his career . . . William really loves the business . . . He has energy and resourcefulness and seems willing to try to learn . . . In justice to himself, Producer Cahn went on record as recognizing his play's weakness.

HIS BACKERS, he declared, insisted that the piece be given a chance at Broadway . . . And the Royale Theater, one of the choice houses on the Street of Hits (W. 45th st. between Broadway and Eighth ave.), was under contract on a pay or play rental basis . . . So $35,000 or more has gone out the window, with the probability of salvaging any part of it being very remote.

Under the Dramatists' Guild contract, a play must remain three weeks on Broadway before a producer shares with the author in movie or stock rights . . . (Not that "Devils Galore" had much to recommend it for either pictures or repertory) . . . Friends in Greater Boston of Mr. Cahn, nevertheless, are hoping that his next one will be a success.

MICHAEL TODD, newest of the Broadway white-haired producing boys, started his career here in Boston with a signal failure, a play called, "The Man from Cairo" . . . He followed it with something called, "Call Me Ziggy," which was more dismal, if possible . . . Then Michael bought the rights to a musical by George Marion, Jr.,—something called, "So to Bedlam" . . . Dick Powell was signed to play the lead . . . Michael—having learned quickly—began to have a bad hunch on the chances of the enterprise being a success . . . So he called the whole thing off, and borrowed the money to pay off the accrued debts, which amounted to more than $14,000 . . . And to the third successive Todd failure in the theater . . . The unusual angle of that episode in Mike's career was that he had more than $100,000 to his credit in the bank to finance the production . . . But he returned the entire sum to his "angels" and began all over again.

Never forget the A B C of Air Power!

THE NATION that "freezes" the design of its military planes can write off its Air Force as inferior and second-rate.

And, before too long, that nation can write off its Air Force altogether . . . for no second-rate Air Force can long control enemy skies, or even its own.

The Luftwaffe, for example, was beaten because of two things: first, because of overwhelming Allied aircraft production . . . and second, because Germany was too late in learning the ABC of Air Power . . .

What is the ABC of Air Power?

The ABC of Air Power is a technique introduced in this war by the Army and Navy and the American aircraft industry.

In simple language it is the technique of making frequent changes in design, during mass production, so that the planes we send into combat tomorrow are consistently better than those in combat today.

Because America has in this way kept its plane designs fluid, instead of freezing them, our Army and Navy Air Forces, from week to week and month to month, cannot be matched by those of any other nation.

Here's how it works

A company such as Consolidated Vultee starts mass production of a long-range super-bomber—the B-32 Dominator, let us say . . .

When the first production-model Dominator has been flight-tested and accepted by the Army Air Forces, it is probably known as the B-32A.

But in a matter of months—or perhaps weeks—so many changes and improvements have been made in the design of the Dominator that subsequent models are known as the B-32B.

Then come more changes . . . and the B-32C is born. This goes on, right down through the alphabet.

The joker in Air Power

This miracle of constant improvement during mass production—often accomplished while stopping the assembly lines only momentarily—sounds like an ideal way to keep an Air Force at peak efficiency. And it is.

But there's another factor to be reckoned with—a factor most people didn't know about in prewar years, or simply overlooked.

That factor is TIME . . . the length of time that elapses between the day a new plane is designed and the day the first model goes into production. And that is the joker in Air Power.

The fact of the matter is this: It takes anywhere from 3 to 7 years for a war plane to progress from drawing board to combat action.

We were caught napping when World War II broke out, because the nation as a whole was unaware of this joker in Air Power.

But, thanks to a few far-sighted Army and Navy officers, and a few members of the aircraft industry itself, we were not caught totally unprepared.

A lesson worth remembering

Long before Pearl Harbor, it was obvious that if we ever did go to war against Japan it would be a war in which mobile, floating airfields—flat-tops—would play a dominant part.

So, starting as far back as 1927, the Navy and the aircraft industry began to experiment with carrier-based dive bombers. In 1939—12 years later—the plane born of these experiments was approved for mass production. But even then, it wasn't ready for combat until 1943!

Similarly, our finest Navy fighter planes saw combat action for the first time 2 years or more after Pearl Harbor—even though they had been in various stages of development and undergoing test flights long before Japan struck.

It must be clear to every thinking person that when it takes so many heart-breaking months and years to perfect a plane for combat, America must never again invite disaster by lagging behind any nation in aeronautical research and development.

Air Power is Peace Power

Today, no spot on earth is more than 60 hours' flying time from your local airport.

In a world so small, there can be no peace, no security, unless we are prepared to defend ourselves against attack from the air.

That is why constant and continuing aeronautical research and development—on the part of the Army, the Navy, and the aircraft industry—is an insurance policy on the life of the nation.

And we must not let a single premium lapse!

Beauty

Age No Bar to Romance

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashions Editor

ROMANCE IS WHAT EVERY WOMAN WANTS, whether she admits it or not. Be she 16 or 60, woman is a romantic creature, thank goodness. And she is never old until she loses that outlook about life.

Therefore we think it pretty smart of a famous manufacturer of cosmetics to name a new line of beauty products "Romance." She contends that there is romance in fashions and romance in make-up, and with that idea in mind she has created a whole new line of cosmetics to match the post-war trend towards more femininity.

We already know about her make-up foundation, which is one of the best, and the most nearly universally suitable, that is to be found. Now she has brought it out in new shades, one of them a warm honey peach tone that is the most flattering thing you can imagine. She also has a new face powder to match it.

NEW LEASE ON LIFE

This foundation comes complete with a sponge, and it gives your face a new lease on life in a matter of moments. With it you can use either a cream or a dry rouge, or none at all, and a dusting of powder, and then forget your make-up for the rest of the day or evening.

But what I am particularly daffy about is her new shades of lipstick. The consistency has always seemed to me just right... neither too dry nor too greasy... and the variety of colors very satisfying.

But her new "romance" lipstick is just the right shade to go with the new fall fashions. It is a clear red, with depth and clarity. It isn't pink or orange, or violet. It's just a lovely, vivid red which sets off a high-necked black basic frock in a super-duper way.

Call Liberty 4000 weekdays before 5... except Saturdays... or write me, enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope, for information as to price and the place where you can buy these romantic cosmetics.

AMOUR RHYMES with allure... and sarong or not, Dorothy has it. Today's beauty article tells you of a line of cosmetics which puts the accent on romance.

Wedding Gifts Go To Bride-to-Be

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
I have been invited to a wedding to take place soon. Since we are friends of the prospective bridegroom we are wondering whether we should send the wedding present to the bride's house or to the bridegroom's house.

2 We have no engraved cards. Therefore, on the plain white card I'm enclosing with the gift, should I write "Mr. and Mrs. John Roberts," or our first names, "Mary and John Roberts?"

1-Even though you are friends of the prospective bridegroom and do not know the bride-to-be at her house, your wedding present addressed to the bride-to-be at her house.

2-If you write only your names on the card to be enclosed—that is, write no message on the card, and a message isn't necessary when sending a wedding present—you should write "Mr. and Mrs. John Roberts," just as your names would be on a visiting card.

The New High Hat

By BETTINA BEDWELL

AS I have reported before, high hats are in style in a big way. The newest edition of the high hat is one that has a towering sculptured crown, and it comes from Sally Victor, a major source of new millinery styles. She contrives a miracle, too, with high-hat models by making them look young. There is nothing dowerish about hers, no ma'am. First of all they are worn off the face, and have a sort of super-bonnet or to them.

Miss Dulin has sketched one, and you can see for yourselves how you like it. Made of a clear olive green felt that is both soft and light, the high crown is sculptured into curved folds at the right side, and there is a turned-up brim.

Wise Not to Wed One Man While Thinking of Another

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:I'm 26 years old and have been out occasionally with an older man. He has asked me to marry him. He could give me a beautiful home and almost everything that I'd want, but I do not love him. Here's why:

When I was 18, just out of high school, I started going with a young man who was studying to be a doctor. We had a wonderful friendship which lasted three years. Then it seemed to me that our going together might interfere with his studies and it would be many years before we could marry.

Our families both agreed that we'd better part, which we did. That was five years ago. He has made good and is practicing medicine now, but has never made any attempt to see me, though we live in the same city. And I know he is not attentive to any other girl. He always seems to be on my mind, and I don't think it would be honest to say "yes" to one man when I still love another.

HESITANT.

You're very wise not to marry one man while you continue to think of another. Why don't you write a friendly note to the doctor and say that you'd like to see him again? I'm sure he will still remember you, and it will be a good way to find out whether you care as much for him as you think you do.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:Would it be possible for you to publish in your column the address of "Alcoholics Anonymous"? We would indeed be very grateful to you.

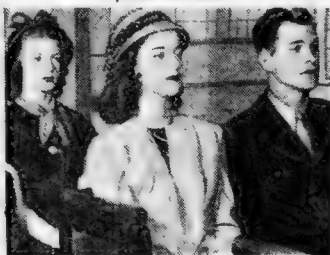

(Mrs.) J. W.

I'm very glad to give you the address where you should write to get the location of the chapter nearest your home. The address of "Alcoholics Anonymous" is Box 658, Church Street Annex, New York, N. Y.

Beef Loaf Menu

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

IF SOMEONE should ask what was the most convenient, the most adaptable, the most sure-to-be-good meat dish in your recipe file, what would you say? A lot of homemakers would say, "Meat Loaf."

There's no denying that a good meat loaf "fills the bill" on countless occasions. Today's menu is a typical oven meal, so easily planned around this meat dish. The loaf will go to the back yard or the park with good grace. It can even present itself before company, with no apologies.

MENU

Ground Beef Loaf
Scalloped Potatoes
Corn-on-the-Cob
Sliced Tomatoes and Onion Rings with French Dressing
Enriched Bread
Butter or Margarine
Blackberry Cobbler
Coffee or Iced Tea

Not the least of its assets is the fact that you can make a meat loaf with just about any meat you have on hand. Several kinds of ground meat may be combined; one of the top favorites is a loaf made with equal amounts of ground beef, veal and pork. Ground liver and kidneys also make appetizing meat loaves.

A meat loaf is extremely easy to vary. Not only the meat—but the seasonings, liquid, and filler—some cereal food such as bread or cracker crumbs—may be varied—and the loaf may be baked in different forms, as in individual loaves or a meat loaf ring. This recipe for ground beef loaf is delicious. It's worthy of a place on your list of "use often" dishes.

GROUND BEEF LOAF

2½ lbs. ground beef
6 crackers
2 tbsp. cream
1 tbsp. lemon juice
2 tsp. salt
Dash of pepper
2 tbsp. chopped onion
4 hard-cooked eggs

Roll crackers. Mix with all other ingredients except eggs. Pack into loaf pan, arranging whole shelled eggs in a lengthwise row in the center of the loaf. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 1½ hours. The ring of eggs will show when loaf is sliced. May be served either hot or cold. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

FOR LATER SERVINGS

There's another angle to this business of leftovers; on some occasions, they may be planned. A meat loaf is a good example, because it may be sliced and served cold or reheated, and be just as appetizing as it is when served immediately.

Suppose you buy some ground meat and do not want to use it right away. It should not be held in the refrigerator long unless it is frozen; but you can make it into a meat loaf, cook it, and it will keep for some time. Just wrap it in waxed paper or put in a closely covered container, and keep it cold.

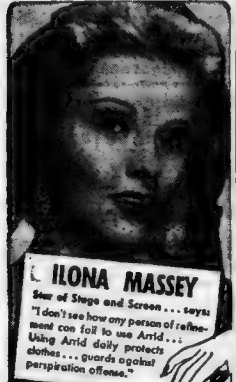

If you do not wish to serve it cold, a popular method of reheating the loaf is to slice it in thick slices and heat in a sauce or gravy. Condensed tomato or mushroom soup serves very well for the sauce; and other foods may be heated with the meat, if desired. Be sure to keep the heat low, whether you use the oven or the top of the range, and avoid over-cooking.

Sliced beef loaf with kernel corn heated in tomato soup is a delectable meal. Ham or veal loaf may be heated in a cream sauce; garnish with slices of hard-cooked egg or strips of pimiento. Also, try heating veal loaf in a double boiler or covered pan, and serve with cream sauce and a sprinkling of chopped nuts.

... reduces the number of Milk Trucks on the road

Perhaps you, too, have noticed, as so many others have, that there are fewer Milk trucks on the road. You have probably applauded, too, the smoother, quieter and more efficient service which has resulted. The reason, of course, for this welcome change is our Every-Other-Day Delivery system. Established as a wartime necessity, it proved to have all the advantages of every day delivery—and more! The savings it made possible (with beneficial results to labor) have been a major factor in keeping Milk prices down, in spite of a very substantial increase in other essential food prices. So economical is Every-Other-Day Delivery and so mutually advantageous, that if it had been possible to institute it in the prewar period we would have been able to reduce the price of Milk at that time. You have cooperated splendidly to make this delivery system a success. We hope that your continued cooperation will make it possible for these mutual savings to be maintained: so that minimum Milk prices will prevail.

Children Mourn Hazel's Decease

There was gloom among the schoolchildren of Boston today and it wasn't caused by the thoughts of tomorrow's school opening; it was the news that Hazel, one of the best known of Franklin Park's elephants, had died.

A week or so ago Hazel came down sick. Her mates, Dutch, Topsy and Jennie, moved close to her as if to comfort her.

Con Callahan, who used to care for Hazel 25 years ago, when she was a star performer in the Ringling Bros. circus, looked at her. "She's done for," was his terse and true prediction.

Old Colonies For Italy Urged

NEW YORK, Sept. 17 — The Mazzini Society, made up of Americans of Italian descent and Italians living in the United States, urged that Italy be allowed to retain her pre-Fascist colonies and possessions.

At the conclusion of a two-day convention here the society sent a cable to Secretary of State Byrnes, now attending the Council of Foreign Ministers in London, urging that colonies belonging to Italy before the Mussolini regime, remain under Italian administration, "even if under international supervision."

Cable dispatches from London said Russia had indicated she would be best qualified to administer the Italian colonies on the Red sea.

Champlain's Visitors Warned on Parking

Visitors to the giant aircraft carrier Lake Champlain were asked today to park their autos some distance from Common-

Deck officers aboard the carrier said it was the best behaved crowd they had observed. More than 8000 were turned away at the closing hour of 4:30.

Modern Aesop's Fable on The Auto Workers' Strike

By AUSTEN LAKE

I TRUST THAT NO UNION BOSS will scold me by mail for my dumb, lard-headed confusion over the United Auto Workers' 30 per cent wage-rise strike. Because I like to see everybody get lots of wages and be able to buy lots of things. So it makes sweet music in my ears to hear Walter Reuther, the UAW vice-president, say his strike "is to determine whether American industry stands ready to gear our ability to consume to our enormously expanded production capacity."

That sounds pretty swell, if Mr. Reuther, whom I knew while covering the pre-war sit-down and slow-down strikes in Michigan, means what I think he means. I think he means, "the more industry pays its workers, the more the workers will have to spend"—hence greater fluid wealth, purchasing power, industrial markets and national prosperity. That's wonderful!

Here's where my confusion starts! Because U. S. industry has not had a chance to begin its "enormously expanded production capacity." The war has just ended, and industry isn't yet geared for anything. So the UAW workers who demand 30 per cent more pay have not yet produced anything to sell, or buy, and I trust that Mr. Reuther is not selfish enough to restrict the "ability to consume" only to his UAW members, who are only a small part of our citizens who would love to get more wages and buy more things, including shiny, new, deluxe sedans.

Other Union Members Are Not Chumps

MY STUPIDITY IN THIS MATTER is such that I will sharpen my pencil and invite Mr. Reuther to peer over my shoulder while I do some grade-school figuring. I will pretend I am the production chief of the entire auto industry and, being a generous gent, will say, "Sure boys! Next Saturday every UAW will get a 30% wage boost." That makes me glow virtuously inside, because I have made the UAW happy! I would just as soon grant them 50% more salary, and it would make no difference in the long run whether I did.

Having done this good deed I would quit being production chief right away! But first I have to revise my cost and price lists to soak up the wage-boost and hand it on to the consumer—including the UAW workers and union members of other industries who might like to buy my cars.

The workers of other trade unions are not chumps. Right away I find this makes them very jealous because they don't see why they should dig up the extra price-increases to buy my autos and thus pay the UAW's salary boost. They inquire, logically, "What about OUR consumer capacity?" So they demand proportionate wage increases and call strikes if necessary. Suckers if they don't!

So now I will pretend I am production chief for the electric industry, the railroads, the coal miners and every category of U. S. business that is unionized and ask compensatory wage increases. After some bickering and bargaining I say, "Okay boys and girls, you too! sign 30% wage increases all around. Now can I quit? No! Having a sound business brain, I must figure the increased cost of materials due to higher labor costs, my own larger fabricating expense, and the bigger outlay for merchandising, advertising and shipping. So I pile that on my wholesale prices, and my retailers have to do the same.

So in the end, the honest consumer, including the industrial workers, finds that the difference he pays for living costs just about offsets the 30% wage boosts, but does not include the pay-hours he lost while striking or the production scarcities due to delay.

They Call It "Depression"

LAND SAKES, I WISH I DIDN'T take this production job! Because now I find there is a large class of workers, like the farmer and small business employes, who don't belong to any industrial organization and hence can't wrangle any wage increases. Of course, I could say, "Aw that's just tough turkey," and let 'em rubble away at their bank savings. But they're my problem too! Because they can't afford the higher price tags and are obliged to keep on wearing out their outmoded clothes, autos and gadgets until they have lost what Mr. Reuther calls their "ability to consume."

This stagnates a large part of my markets. So as production chief I am forced to cut down part of my manufacturing schedules to meet the slackening demand. I must make a little less of everything, and to do so I must lay off some of my workers, who promptly lose THEIR "ability to consume." So a little later I have to lay off more workers, including many returned war veterans, which in time defeats Mr. Reuther's promise of "enormously expanded production capacity."

And dear me! This is one hell of a job I pretended to take! Because after a period the UAW will discover that its original 30 per cent wage-boost has no more buying power than the dollar did in September of 1945. So it will grumble, "Shucks, what we need is another wage increase to keep our chins level with the tide," and spearhead another strike which touches off another national wage convulsion. And as U. S. production chief, I will grant another general wage increase and load the cost on the consumer's back, which by this time has curvature of the spine.

Finally, after a succession of such wage-boosts, the UAW bosses, including Mr. Reuther, will grow to its workers, "Look what we did for you! Today you draw a weekly average of $200 instead of a meagre $75." To which the workers will reply glumly, "Yes. But it costs us $185 to live instead of $65. Today a sawbuck doesn't buy what a fimmuf uster."

And in the end the UAW and other union workers will wish in the secret recesses of their souls that they were back at the economic level of September, 1945 instead of being buried under a Chinese Fable, just set it down to my ignorance. The only knowledge I have of such mysteries as "fluid wealth" and "consumer capacity" is the notion that I must produce something to sell before I can demand wages for the same. Is that too, too silly?

Grid Thrillers This Week

College football moves closer to the front and center of the nation's sports stage this weekend, according to the Associated Press. Topped by such encounters as Indiana-Michigan, Southern California-UCLA, Kentucky-Mississippi and Duke-South Carolina, ordinarily late October or November clashes, more than 50 games are scheduled for Friday night and Saturday afternoon.

Demers-Perrone to Top Mechanics Card Tonight

By JACK CONWAY

SAM SILVERMAN will resume his task of rebuilding Boston boxing when he stages another all-star card at Mechanics Building tonight. There is not a single big name fighter on the card which is one reason it appeals to the fans.

Experience has taught fistic followers that when boxers with national reputations are featured by a small club they usually have a setup as an opponent.

If Silverman continues to take a few risks for their money and leaves the one-sided matches for other promoters he will find he still will be business this time next year and with a growing list of customers.

The Boxing Commission and the sports writers should be willing to support a plan that will build back Boston boxing. They should also unite in preventing any one-sided matches which will do the sport irreparable damage and deprive the fans of their hard earned money.

The top 10-rounder tonight will find Pat Demers of Brockton battling Joey Pirrone of Cleveland. Pirrone comes East with a kayo record and he is expected to make things stirring for Demers.

It is interesting to note that Jackie Harris, Malden war veteran, will oppose Jack Desjardis of Montreal. There are more service men returning to the boxing game each week, and they will do much to revive the sport.

Jimmy Mulligan of Lowell will oppose John Henry Eskew, another former service man, while Steve Kronis of the South End will take a crack at Joe Coletti of Providence.

Silverman may not have as many customers tonight as he did for his opening show a week ago when Mechanics Building was sold when Demers was the main attraction, but there will be enough fans on hand to assure a reasonable profit for the promoter. More important, the fans should receive dividends in the form of action.

Gus Mell Returns

GUS MELL of Montreal, who has been boxing in the out-of-town clubs, will return to big time at the Garden on Friday night when he will oppose Cobby Lewis in a 10-round bout at a Goodwin A. C. show. Mell was headed for the fistic heights when he was handed a setback by Sal Bartolo of East Boston.

Since the Bartolo reverse, Mell has devoted considerable time to improving his boxing. Gus was weak in infighting, while he had the bad habit of leading with a right hand. A puncher like Mell can defeat top night performers if he masters boxing.

Mell is colorful and if he can win over Lewis he can be built up as a leading ring attraction.

Great Barrington Races

THE MASSACHUSETTS Fair Circuit was to open a six-day program at Eddie Carroll's Great Barrington track today. There will be eight races each day, and it is expected that new records for attendance and mutual handle will be set.

In view of the pickups in racing interest at Marshfield, Northampton and Brockton this year, Great Barrington is certain to go on to new highs. Racing Secretary Picarillo will have 175 horses at Great Barrington, which will make it possible for him to offer attractive programs.

The White Sox aren't much. They're sixth in the A. L., now 4½ games in front of the Bosox and going nowhere with great rapidity. Yet the Chisox couldn't work up so much as a bead of perspiration as they pranced to two straight wins.

Cronin was disgruntled, to be sure. Even Dave Ferriss, one of the most amiable players in the big leagues, was a trifle incensed. Dave took a kick at the resin bag out on the hill as the Chisox smacked him for six hits and five runs in the sixth chapter of the second game. This was unusual for Ferriss, who seldom shows symptoms of distemper.

Balls that hopped as though they had Mexican jumping beans in the core; miscalculation by McBride that resulted in a triple in right field; a quarterback "sneak" by Newsome who feigned catching a line drive that everyone felt sure he scooped out of the dirt—these were the undoing of Ferriss.

Red, White Sox In Twin Bill

Monday is generally an open date in Boston as far as baseball is concerned but today it's a little different. The Red Sox and Chicago White Sox engage in a double-header at Fenway that doesn't mean a thing as far as the pennant race is concerned since both clubs are near the bottom of the American League standings.

Cronin will probably pitch Pinky Woods and Emmet O'Neill while the White Sox will use Humphries and Papish. After the exhibition staged yesterday in which the locals lost two games, 5-3; 6-1, it won't make much difference who tried to hurl. Joe Cronin was thinking seriously of using radar for the remainder of the season especially on the infielders. It might solve his problem.

The White Sox aren't much. They're sixth in the A. L., now 4½ games in front of the Bosox and going nowhere with great rapidity. Yet the Chisox couldn't work up so much as a bead of perspiration as they pranced to two straight wins.

Cronin was disgruntled, to be sure. Even Dave Ferriss, one of the most amiable players in the big leagues, was a trifle incensed. Dave took a kick at the resin bag out on the hill as the Chisox smacked him for six hits and five runs in the sixth chapter of the second game. This was unusual for Ferriss, who seldom shows symptoms of distemper.

Balls that hopped as though they had Mexican jumping beans in the core; miscalculation by McBride that resulted in a triple in right field; a quarterback "sneak" by Newsome who feigned catching a line drive that everyone felt sure he scooped out of the dirt—these were the undoing of Ferriss.

Mike Ryba, dueling Thornton Lee in the first game, was betrayed by an Alphonse-Gaston skit by Newsome and Lake who allowed a lift from Dickshot's bat to fall for a two-bagger. This conclusion was followed by a Holm hilarity. Holm tried to nail Dickshot stealing, but his throw went wild into left field as Dickshot scored Chicago's fourth run—four runs being just enough to win.

It was his second time Quick Reward had beaten Busher. He did it at Santa Anita last season, but on that occasion he tossed Jockey Charley Corbett at the gate and ran the race sans a jockey. Quick Reward ran the mile in 1:37.3. Busher paid $2.70 and $2.50, and War Allies, a half length back, $3.80.

Somerville Opens '45 Season With Chelsea

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Somerville High School took such a tremendous helping of the football pudding last fall that the school committee broke all precedent in re-signing Coach Tom Lynch to a three-year contract.

And Coach Lynch is very grateful because he may need this season—and possibly next—to rebuild an outfit that could approach the 1944 club.

That team, paced by All-Scholastic Fran Rooney, whipped every major opponent after dropping the opener to Chelsea (18-6) as Somerville backers went wild.

Thir enthusiasm reached a new high when the Lynch team turned in its winning effort against Medford (the first time in 31 years) and then followed this up by ruining Malden's undefeated campaign.

That eleven had everything (except Chelsea's number), but Coach Lynch has only two veterans back. He's even lost his assistant, Ralph Nash, who's being replaced by Charlie Murphy (B. C.) and Johnnie Guine (another ex-Eagle).

So it's plain to see why Coach Lynch is putting his "green" squad through such strenuous paces. Somerville had three successive scrimmages with Cambridge Latin last week as the Holy Cross Jesters prepared for the opener Saturday afternoon.

And if you hadn't guessed it, that first opponent will be the same Chelsea Red Devils. The mere mention of Chelsea makes Coach Lynch see red.

Somerville will be operating out of the T and because it will be Capt. Bill Aviszus, 165 pounds, at quarterback, the offense may be strong. The remainder of the backfield has had little or no experience.

Pat Beard, 145 pounds, and Frank Simas, 160, have taken over the leadership for the halfbacks but their places still are being seriously threatened by Don Wagner, a classy 165-pound ball carrier, Bob Berra, 155, and George Sousa, 135. Coach Lynn loves a hard fob and that may be the reason why Tom DeMarco, 210 pounds, may get the call over Frank Johnson, 180, and Frank Ryan, 175.

Capt. Aviszus' passes won't be hanging in air with the ends that Somerville has set to start. Harold Landers, 180, a 90-pound veteran, will be invaluable in getting under the pitches. Joe Kelley, 6 feet and 170 pounds, has the edge for the other wing over John Zanghetti, 5.9, and Johnnie Morrison, 175-pound sub on last year's team.

The remainder of the line may startle opponents when it steps onto the field but unless the boys pick up some invaluable experience from the frequent scrimmages, Somerville will just have to stagger through the early part of its schedule.

Coach Lynch has a quartet of tackles, all over 6 foot tall and all over 185 pounds. Jim McGrath, 217, and sophomore Chet Billakowski, 235, will probably be the first stringers. But they have plenty of power to throw off in Dick Rivers, 185, and Joe Paseretski, 185. A converted fullback, Johnnie Russo, 180, and Bob Nicholson, 175, will be jumping into guard berths ahead of Tom Thompson, a transfer from Commerce, B. George, Bob Hurley and Tom Battinelli.

Filling Charlie Escott's shoes at center will be another stiff problem. Al Whitman, 180, has been turning in a great job to keep ahead of Joe Mucci and Bob Ercole, but he'll have to be on his toes to hang onto his first string rating.

The Somerville schedule, after Chelsea, later: Everett, Sept. 28 at Keith Academy, Oct. 5; at Medford, Oct. 12; at Lynn, Oct. 19; at Melrose, Oct. 27; at Malden, Oct. 27; at Melrose, Nov. 12; at Chelsea, Nov. 17; at Rindge Tech., Thanksgiving.

Al Fiorentino Joins B. C. Staff

Things are going from one extreme to the other at Boston College's Alumni Field lately. All last week Moody Sarno found himself without assistance. Coach Don Currihan was attending double practice sessions held by the Boston Yanks and was unable to be present. This week, Sarno will not only have Currihan back, but will also have the aid of Al Fiorentino, another Eagle.

This will give Sarno a complete coaching staff for the first time he assumed the duties of head coach in the Fall of 1943 when Boston College went on an informal basis.

Last year he started from scratch with only two holdovers from his undefeated team of the previous season. This year he found almost a dozen men who had played under him during the previous campaign, at least five of whom were starters in several of last year's games.

But now he is no longer under a handicap in the coaching line. Don Currihan has been on hand since last spring and has been an invaluable aid. Now comes the heartening news that Al Fiorentino has consented to help out with the linemen. This will let Sarno devote a good deal more time with the backs.

He now has on hand sufficient first string material to assure himself another successful season.

Browns Would Retain Minor Loop Franchise

EBENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 17 (AP)—Elmer Dally, president of the Middle Atlantic Baseball League, said the St. Louis Browns had informed him they wish to renew their Youngstown, O. franchise in the circuit if it resumes operation in 1946.

Dally said he will call a meeting of the Middle Atlantic League club owners later this month to survey prospects for resuming operations next year.

Robinson, Zivic Sign for 10-Rounder

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 17 (AP)—Promoter Gabe Kaufman said he had signed Welterweight Ray (Sugar) Robinson, Detroit, and Capt. Fritz Zivic, Pittsburgh, veterans, for a 10-round boxing match here Nov. 7.

Robinson, a leading contender for the welter title, is scheduled to meet Jake LaMotta in their delayed 12-round bout at Chicago, Sept. 26.

Move to Reorganize Cotton State League

GREENVILLE, Miss., Sept. 16 (AP)—With eight cities indicating they will enter clubs if suitable working agreements are made with higher baseball organizations, steps were taken to reorganize the Cotton States League today.

The league suspended at close of the 1941 season and has not operated since because of war.

ORIOLES, ROYALS EVEN BALTIMORE, Sept. 17 (INS)—The Baltimore Orioles rolled over the Montreal Royals by a 19 to 4 score to even the International League play-off at two games each.
